

Hello everyone!
I had a wonderful day celebrating my birthday with my KPS friends. One of the games I played was 'Pass the Pawcel'. I waited excitedly to see what was revealed when each layer was unwrapped. I also did some 'Bone and Biscuit' races. They're the same as Egg and Spoon races, but with a little doggy biscuit balanced on top of a bigger bone shaped biscuit. I would have won if the biscuits could be inside the competitor when they crossed the finish line! Pawhaps the rules need to change for Labrador contestants?

Asha's Birthday Adventures

I was spoilt rotten with cards and birthday wishes, including a bone shaped card from 6M. Sorry I'm not looking at the camera (above), I was busy playing with my new tennis ball. Thank you KPS community for making me feel so special and helping to support Seeing Eye Dogs Australia.

Our Out of Uniform Day raised a whopping $568.60 for SEDA. They have told me that $30 can help pay for puppy vaccinations and $65 helps with specialised training. Imagine how many dogs (and therefore people) we will be helping with our donation!

Left: I met Gill Callister last week. She's got a really impawtant job with the Education Department as Secretary. She leads the delivery and improvement of education services across Victoria. Gill wanted to visit KPS because she had heard about all the great teaching and learning happening here. Our School Captains did a brilliant job taking Gill on a tour of the school before she met with Mrs Laffan, Mrs Cooney, Ms McCarthy, Mr Thompson, Mr Parkinson and Miss Crowther. Before she left, she pawsed to have a photo with me.

Below: Thousands of 'Coles Sports for Schools' vouchers have been collected and counted. We've got a few more weeks to keep saving and then we will be able to swap them for new sports equipment. I've got my paws crossed for some tennis balls! There is a box at the office to put the vouchers in.

Comments and questions that have put a smile on my dial this week...

"You're my favourite three year old Labrador!"

"Can you walk up steps? Is it hard with four legs?"

"I want to show Asha my work!"

PS: I didn't eat any vouchers, just slobbered on them a little....and squashed the ones I accidentally sat on.
