

Asha's Adventures

Hello everyone!

This time next week we will be on holidays! I'll be spending some time in front of the fire, going on walks, sleeping in, chasing balls and playing with my doggy friends. I've heard that I'm also off to see the vet for my annual vaccination. Last time I was offered a treat after my injection. Mmmmm, now there's something to look forward to....

Reports went home last week. My report said that I am friendly, make people happy, can fall asleep anywhere and make food disappear just by looking at it. My future learning goals are to try and stay awake more and not try to eat absolutely everything. What did you think of the new report format? The last page has a quick parent survey and my teacher friends hope that lots will be completed and returned.

Mrs Marr donated a bike to KPS and asked that it be raffled off to raise money for my expenses. This was really nice of her and very generous. Some of my friends from Grade 6 have been selling raffle tickets and we get to find out on Friday who is going to have a brand new bike to play with over the holidays. Remember to wear a helmet when you're riding your new bike! I hope you all know how grateful I am to everyone who helps look after me.

We were treated to a pawformance by Mr Thompson and the Singing Group on Monday at lunch time. I joined the audience and listened to some lovely tunes. They are a talented bunch!

I travelled far and wide this week, all without leaving KPS. 'How did I do it?' you might ask. Well, my Grade 5/6 friends have been researching countries as part of their Inquiry unit this term and yesterday they held their Travel Expo. It was AMAZING. I learnt so much about different climates, landmarks, languages and my favourite thing of all, food! It was a very special occasion so I was even allowed to try a tiny bit of German sausage and a dessert from Sweden and Jamaica. Delicious. I wish it was the Travel Expo every day.

I think I've got the travel bug. Now to organise a passpawt...

I've kept my ears open this week and have heard some things in the yard. Here are some that I've remembered:
"Asha, do you curl your hair? Your back is soooooo curly!"
"You're one of those dogs that looks so grown up!"
"Oh Asha, you're so good for my confidence!"
"Asha, would you like a German sausage?"
"Asha, are you being a Labradawdle?" (I may have been walking quite slowly when this was said)
