

Asha's Adventures

Hello everyone! Wow, Term 3 already! Hope you enjoyed the holiday break. I had quite a few afternoon (morning and evening) naps, went walking, met a wombat, rolled in something smelly made by the wombat, helped clean the shed and visited the vet. I thought it was very exciting to visit the vet. I didn't even notice when I got my injection. Aside from my injection, the vet also checked out my itchy skin. You might have noticed me scratching or licking my legs. I don't have fleas but I do have allergies. ☹️ We're trying to work out what I'm allergic to at the moment. It could be some types of food and I'm on an even stricter diet than usual. For now, I'm only allowed to eat special food. I'd love it if you could continue to help me out by making sure all your food goes into your tummy and not mine.

Term 3 is going to be great and I can't wait! I hear that my Foundation friends are going to have a two legged and four legged visitor from Responsible Pet Ownership, my Grade 1/2 friends will be learning about different cultures and there will be many happy campers in Grades 3/4 and 5/6. I wonder what else we will get up to over the next 10 weeks?

Below & Below Right: It's so good to be back at school with everyone. Have you checked out the new painting in the office? Someone took the roof off and you can see the sky.

Above: I took my raffle money to the vets and it helped pay for my worm and flea treatment. Thank you for helping look after me. You don't have to because I've got my own pawket money, but it's really nice if you do and I'm very grateful. You can see who won the bike on the next page of my adventures...

Left: Most days between recess and lunchtime I spend time helping Kylie and Kim in the office. On Tuesdays, I also help Kristy. Kim, Kylie, Kristy and 'Kasha'?

Every Tuesday is 'School Banking' day. Kristy told me that we have over 100 students at KPS with a little yellow bankbook. Pawhaps I should get one for my pawket money? You can put money in your bankbook each week, once a fortnight, once a month, or however often you wish. If you drop it in at the office Kristy will make sure your money goes into your account. If you want to set up an account, Kristy can help you do that too!

Below: On the last day of Term 2, the lucky winner of the bike raffle was drawn. Congratulations! Hope you have lots of fun riding the bike. Thank you to everyone who bought a ticket. I'm very spoilt. 😊
